Audio/Video Design

Learn what's best for your space and get it done right the first time with Farrow AV. Our audio/video design technicians help customers avoid costly mistakes and unsightly renovation mishaps. Our technicians go in the field to work with homeowners, interior designers, and builders to evaluate room requirements and determine the best placement and equipment needed to achieve the right balance between excellent acoustics and visual aesthetics.

Each space is different and so is its audience. Everything depends upon the individual entertainment needs of the customer – with no one-size-fits-all solutions found here! For both residential and commercial applications, Farrow AV technicians incorporate a world of features into their designs, including whole home audio, distributed video, lighting control, and much more.

We even have complete wireless solutions available!

Equipment Sales

An audio/video entertainment system is an investment, but Farrow AV is not in the business of simply pushing premium equipment to increase our customers' investments. We are consultants focused on what's best for our customers' entertainment system needs. Certainly, we provide direct sales of equipment, but our true forte is helping customers get what they want from their entire system, exposing additional capabilities, and ensuring customers get the most for their entertainment dollars.

Proudly, in our design work we offer a wide range of high-end products renowned for outstanding performances, including:

- B&K Components®
- Crestron®
- Denon®
- JBL®
- NuVo®
- Niles®
- Omnimount®
- Panasonic®
- Samsung®
- SIRIUS Satellite Radio®
- SunBriteTV®
- TouchStone Home Products®
- and more...

Plus we offer all related accessories for the brands we carry!

Seamless Installation

From simple wall-mounts to multi-room installations, Farrow AV has the specific expertise to complete unobtrusive, seamless installs for products in both consumer and commercial applications. We know which product lines are suitable for home use and which are better for commercial audiences. Our installers conceal wires and cables to blend entertainment systems with surrounding environments, including voice, data, and network cabling, structured cabling, landscape lighting, internet radio, wireless access, and much more.

Service Commitment

Committed to our customers, Farrow AV provides training for a minimum of 60 days after installation to ensure user operation comfort levels. Plus, we provide toll-free support, document components and install methods for easy troubleshooting, and offer customized support packages for maintaining outstanding performances for the lifetime of the equipment.
